Vol. 1, No. 1 April 15, 1942

"In this grim struggle we are not going to come through in the last resort merely because we have tanks and aeroplanes; we are going to come through because we have courage and ideas and faith and intelligence; and for all those we need books. Books are, in fact, weapons of war."
-- Stanley Upwin

CIRCULATION PRIVILEGES AND RESTRICTIONS

1. The current issue of the periodicals which are starred in the list will remain in the Library reading room for a period of one week. These periodicals may be borrowed for overnight and week-end use.

2. All indexes, abstract services, government manuals, etc., will be reserved for reference use in the Library only.

3. Certain other periodicals, designated by technical divisions as necessary for continuous reference will be reserved for use in the Library or for circulation in Little Rock only.

4. Other periodicals can be circulated On Request to regional and field offices. They will be routed in the order in which requests are received by the Library, except that priority will be given to regional divisions having a primary interest in the subject matter.

5. A time limit of three days will be set on circulation to each regional office division and of five days to each field office, except where the request list is very short, or when the subject matter is of primary interest to only one or two divisions or offices, in which cases arrangements may be made for a longer loan period.

6. Since circulation to field offices will not begin until circulation to regional offices is completed, it is of the utmost importance that routing be kept definitely to schedule. Even so, it will often be several weeks after date of issue before a requested periodical can be expected to reach field offices.

7. If the request list for any periodical becomes too long, the list will be closed and subsequent requests held on a waiting list to replace cancellations on the active list.

8. It is hoped that staff members of the agencies located in the Donaghey Trust Building and the Donaghey Building will use the current issues of periodicals held in the Library reading room whenever possible, so that some preference in circulation may be given to the agencies located at a distance from Library.

The Librarian will notify you regularly during the week a periodical in which you are interested is in the reading room. You will then have opportunity to see it more promptly than if you wait for it to be routed to you. At the same time you will speed its circulation to others.

In asking to see periodicals regularly, therefore, please indicate whether you prefer notification or circulation.

Vol. 1, No. 2 May 1, 1942

"When people are burning books in other parts of the world, we ought to be distributing them with greater vigor; for books are among our best allies in the fight to make democracy work."

-John W. Studebaker

NEW BOOKS On the following pages are listed the books which have recently been added to the Library collection. This is a supplement to Library Memorandum number 2 which was issued January 5, 1942, and gives the title of all books added to the Library since that date.

These books are now ready for circulation to the regional and field office subject to the following regulations:

1. Books may be borrowed for a period of two weeks exclusive of the mailing time to and from the field offices.

2. Books may be renewed for another two weeks period when not needed for other borrowers.

3. Books weighing up to four pounds may be returned to the Library under frank.

4. Books should be securely wrapped in cardboard and heavy paper for mailing.

LIBRARY MEMORANDUM NO.2 There are a few copies of Library Memorandum No. 2 left. If you failed to receive a copy of this and wish to have a complete list of the books in the Library write or telephone the Librarian.

PERIODICA CIRCULATION Have you asked to have your name added to the periodical circulation or notification list? If not, check the periodical list which you will find in the April 15 issue of the Newsletter and let the Librarian know which periodicals you wish to see regularly.

Marion E. Wheeler
Librarian.

"As each generation comes into the world devoid of knowledge, its first duty is to obtain possession of the stores already amassed. It must overtake its predecessors before it can pass by them."

-- Horace Mann

CIRCULATION OF NEWSLETTER Due to the war we are faced with a serious paper shortage and we have all been asked to contribute to the war effort by saving paper. The Library is cooperating in this endeavor by reducing the number of NEWSLETTERS to be distributed throughout the region.

Instead of sending copies to individual employees each office will receive one copy for circulation to all employees. We suggest that a routing slip containing the name of each staff member be attached to the NEWSLETTER as soon as it is received in the office so that each employee will have an opportunity to see it.

Your cooperation in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

SUBJECT INTEREST SURVEY The last page of this copy of the NEWSLETTER is a memorandum asking you to let us know what your subject interests are. If you will note that information at the bottom of the letter and return it to the Library, it will aid us greatly in securing the publications which you need in your work. With your subject interests in mind we can watch for publications of particular interest to you and see that they are brought to your attention.

"If we plan soundly and courageously, if we enlist the help of the greatest number of people in making these plans we can build an economy which will offer everybody a fair chance for work and security. Planning for this kind of future is part of the defense effort itself."

-Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

HAVE YOU READ?

Planning for America. By George B. Galloway and associates. N. Y. Henry Holt and Co. 1941. 713pp. 280.12 G13P

"This book was designed as a 'cooperative inquiry into the progress of economic and social planning in the United States; its principles, practices, and problems, its achievements, present status and potentialities'...

"The scope of the book includes: (1) a summary explanation of the nature of American planning activity and the public opinion by which it has been conditioned; (2) problems of land, water, and energy resource planning; (3)an essay on scientific research skills, institutions, and equipment available in America and on the relation of technological changes to planning; (4) economic planning; (5) social welfare planning problems; (6) the work of planning agencies organized on an area basis (i.e., the National Resources Planning Board, regional planning organizations, state, city, and county planning boards); (7) war planning - military and industrial; and (8) essays on solving the unemployment problem, managing the monopolistic industries, and a program of 'next steps forward...'"

-The American Political Science Review. February, 1942.

YOU SHOULD READ: The road we are traveling 1914-1942; guide lines to America's future as reported to the Twentieth Century Fund. By Stuart Chase. N.Y. Twentieth Century Fund. 1942. 106 p. 280.12 C38R

"This book is written in semi-popular style and is undoubtedly a step beyond the trend of thought which the average American admitted prior to World War II. However, the new world order which he predicts beginning with the reconstruction days, no doubt, has been the secret hope of many public spirited Americans for a long time, and differs in all major respects from Hitler's proposed new world order, Facism, and Socialism.

"The high lights include a thought provoking discussion of: (1) the implication that a monetary system can be a curse as well as a blessing to humanity; (2) citations that Governments do not fall because of the magnitude of national debt so long as military strength is maintained; (3) the steps which a Government can take to successfully prosecute a total war can likewise be taken in peace times to insure total employment and an abundance of consumer materials within the purchasing ability of all in need; (4) all people of the nation are entitled to a guaranteed minimum living standard and until such time all have attained that standard, no one is entitled to more." - Douglas H. Bradley, Procedure Coordinator, Farm Security Administration.

HAVE YOU READ? Ill fares the land; migrants and migratory labor in the United States. By Carey McWilliams. Boston, Mass., Little Brown & Co. 1942. 283 M2521 cop.2

"Carey McWilliams portrays our agricultural problem by calling attention to the six million farm laborers' and wage earners' families. He divides these inarticulate people into two groups: first, the depression workers, displaced in our scheme of land ownership; second, the migrant worker, who for years has followed the cropping system. These families are being displaced in agriculture because of our technological progress, as evidenced by the tremendous increase in tractors and other farm machinery. In short, the industrial revolution has hit the farmer.

"The last chapter of the book is devoted to the author's solution and comments and is entitled "From Talk to Action". Through the entire book, but especially the last chapter, the author points out what the FSA is doing to lighten this burden of the migrant worker. This book is full of information that will assist you in better understanding our agricultural problems. It will hold your attention."

YOU WILL WANT TO READ

Old McDonald had a farm. By Angus McDonald. Boston, Houghton Mifflin Co., 1942. 278pp. 120 M14.

The author, Angus McDonald, has written an unusual but true story of his own father, a hard-headed Presbyterian preacher whose mission was to save both souls and soil.

"Old McDonald is the stuff that America is made of". He believed that this was a fine country which the plain people ought to possess and care for but not abuse. You will admire the courage, strength and fortitude of Old McDonald as you read this colorful tale of an Oklahoma farm.

TOWARD FARM SECURITY

Toward farm security; the problem of rural poverty and the work of the Farm Security Administration, prepared under the direction of the FSA personnel training committee, for FSA employees, by Joseph Gaer, Consultant, Farm security administration. /Washington/ U.S.Govt. print. off., 1941. 246pp. 1.5 T65

This book is designed primarily to orient the new county supervisor to his or her job; it is a general introduction to the theory and practice of Farm Security.

The book discusses the problems of rural poverty, its causes and effects, as well as the objectives and methods of Farm Security. It is designed to serve as a basic guide to Farm Security employees in situations requiring independent judgment. A glossary of terms should prove of constant and practical use. Every Farm Security employee should read this book and keep it near at hand for frequent reference.

HAVE YOU READ?

America's own refugees; our 4,000,000 homeless migrants. By Henry Hill Collins, Jr. Princeton University Press. 1941. 323 pp. 283 C69

Twenty-four introductory plus twenty-five concluding pages develop a comprehensive view of both farm and nonfarm migration within our Nation. They also afford friendly appraisal of Soil Conservation and of Farm Security activities, and make challenging proposals concerning the future of the family-size farm. By way of illustration, wage and hour regulations applying to only the one and one-half percent of farms that employ four or more hired hands at one time would protect one-third of all farm laborers and at the same time ease the competitive impact of industrial farming upon family farming. Current budget experiences emphasize the argument of universal susceptibility to migrancy. The facts and proposals presented should prove sufficiently disturbing to aid the open minded toward fruitful thinking on issues that promise to persist until adequately understood and properly treated.

Intervening discussion affords ready selection of emphasis to the leisurely reader. Chapters on cotton, tractors, erosion, seafaring, and unemployment discuss causes of migration. "Keep moving" regulations, types of migrant employment in the East, the Midland and the Westland, inclusion of one time Rotarians in the migrating stream, the difficulty of extrication from a wandering career, and ineffectiveness of a defense industry program by way of solution combine to trace "the trail to journey's end." Such special problems as "settlement", health, housing, education, and liberty receive separate treatment.

Vol. 1, No. 8 August 6, 1942

"It is time for us to catch the spirit of America, yes, the spirit of its past, of its destiny, together with the spirit of its culture, its psychology and its philosophy... Our way of life, with all its short-comings, seems pretty sound to me, and I believe it is time for all of us to begin to get selfconscious about its positive values."

-William Travers Jerome III.

HERE IS A MUST — Forward to the land. By Elmer T. Peterson. University of Oklahoma Press. 1942 285 pp. 281.12 P442.

"Straightforward, dynamic authoritative, this book presents a vibrantly interesting, vastly informative account of the tragic decline of rural America. It tells in plain language what has happened, why it happened and what can be done about it.

"Here is a book for every American - city-bred and country-bred. It shows the farmer the economic benefits of home productivity over purely commercialized farming, and it convinces city dwellers of the great good which comes to every nation through rural culture, co-operation in rural communities, intelligent land programs, home arts and crafts."

HAVE YOU READ? Culture in the South. By William Terry Couch. Chapel Hill, The University of North Carolina press. 1935. 711pp. 280.002 C83

"Life in the South, as elsewhere, it may well be repeated, is not a simple affair. It is varied from class to class, and is further complicated by wide differences in political, economic, racial, educational, and religious faiths. To be sure, there are dominant tendencies; but he must be a wise man who looks over the whole South, averages it all up, and then says the dominant feature of the South is such and such." Do you agree that the dominant feature of the section is depicted in Culture in the South?
